

DECLARES RUSSIA'S NEIGHBORS NEED AN IMPRESSIVE LESSON

Naval Commissar Admiral Kuznetsov Evidently Refers to Japan

FRONTIER INVOLABLE

Japanese Warships Reported Massing to Defend Asserted Oil and Mineral Rights

MOSCOW, July 25—Obviously referring to Japan, Soviet Naval Commissar Admiral Kuznetsov today declared that Russia's neighbors in the Far East apparently need a lesson to teach them Russian frontiers are inviolable.

While Japanese warships were reported massing to defend asserted oil and mineral rights in the Soviet half of Sakhalin Island, Admiral Kuznetsov warned of Russia's growing power. Apparently referring to fighting between Japanese and Soviet troops on the outer Mongolian frontier, the Admiral said:

"The best guarantee against all danger of armed attack is the Soviet Union growing in might—increasing power of our armed forces on land, sea and air."

Kuznetsov claimed that Soviet naval strength had been augmented and it now stands in no way inferior to that of the greater naval powers."

SEEKS NOMINATION

Paul R. Nichols, 228 Washington street, Morrisville, a well-known resident of that borough for a number of years, during which time he has taken a very active interest in the affairs of his community, has announced his candidacy for the nomination of Clerk of Quarter Sessions of Bucks county on the Republican ticket.

A native of Spring Creek, Warren county, Penna., Mr. Nichols was born on June 25, 1883. He attended the elementary schools of his community and later the high school, from which he was graduated in 1900. For two years also he attended the Oil City Business College.

Leaving the latter, he learned the electrical trade and later he decided to take up railroad engineering. After having served as a fireman for several years he was promoted in 1912 to the position of engineer on the New York Central Railroad.

Mr. Nichols located in Morrisville in 1917 and from that time until about four years ago he was in the electrical business. He then became employed by the Robertson Art Tile Company, by which firm he is still employed.

In 1929, he married Miss Frances E. Taylor, a native of Morrisville. She has been a life long resident of that borough.

For five years Mr. Nichols served as scoutmaster of the Episcopal Church group, and in 1933 he was elected a member of Morrisville Borough Council. He was re-elected to Council in 1937 and at present he is serving his second term as president of Borough Council.

ITALY FAVORS WOOD AND CANVAS FOR PLANES

Fascist Preference Attributed To Experiments Showing Metal Ships Inferior

MORE EASILY DISABLED

(Note: This is the second of a series of four articles on Italy's air force.—INS)

By Merrill Mueller

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, July 25—(INS)—Because their experiments revealed that metal airplanes were more easily disabled, the Italian Air Force continues to use wood and canvas in the construction of its fighting planes.

By the same token, it was found that such fighting planes could be produced by unskilled labor in short time and at low cost; production costs tremendously lowered, of course, by State-controlled industry.

With regular jig-frames and simplified construction methods, it was found, I was told by one of the high officers of Guidonia, Italy's experimental air station, unskilled labor had no difficulty in turning out excellent air frames and wing panels. The complicated and technical parts are, of course, made of the proper materials by highly skilled workmen.

Dedicate New Bridge

(By "The Stroller")

An informal parade and dedication of the new bridge which opened Saturday across the Neshaminy Creek at State Road was staged Sunday by members of the boat house colony.

Garbed in improvised costumes representing various individuals who are in the public eye, the paraders marched back and forth over the bridge and created plenty of amusement and merriment.

Hitler was drowned and Mussolini was tossed into the water. A bride and groom were escorted with due solemnity across the span, while a 13-months-old baby was dropped from the bridge.

The rescue squad went into action and pulled the infant from the water.

Those who witnessed the demonstration say that the affair surpassed anything that the State of Pennsylvania could have arranged as a formal dedication of the bridge.

EUROPEAN CORN BORER CAUSING MUCH DAMAGE

County Agent W. F. Greenawalt Urges Immediate Action Be Taken

MUST HALT SPREAD

The European corn borer is beginning to cause a great amount of damage, especially in the sweet corn fields and patches, according to County Agent William F. Greenawalt.

Farmers and truckers will have to do their part and do it promptly and thoroughly if they have any interest in preventing the spread of the European corn borer.

Announcing on Friday afternoon that as early as July 5 a from 75 to 100 per cent infection has been found in some places, Mr. Greenawalt stated that persons engaged in the growing of sweet corn should destroy the stalks immediately after the crop is harvested. This, Mr. Greenawalt explained, may be done in one of three ways, by burning, by plowing under the stalks or by placing them in the silos.

Destruction of the corn stalks, said Mr. Greenawalt, is very important because later in the season a second brood of the borer will appear and it will attack the field corn. It was pointed out that the borer prefers to thrive on sweet corn but if it cannot find this it will attack the field corn.

Speaking of another pest, the Japanese beetle, which has caused farmers, horticulturists and truckers much annoyance and in many cases heavy

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

A Landmark in Politics

Washington, July 24. THE full significance of the recently passed Hatch bill, prohibiting political activity upon the part of Federal officeholders and barring all below the immediate aides of a cabinet officer from becoming delegates to political conventions, will not become generally apparent until next spring when the Presidential primaries begin. But the practical politicians are under no delusion about it now.

THEY know this is one of the most politically revolutionary measures enacted in many years. It means that instead of the national conventions of the party in Economic aspects of the new Triple Alliance are to be handled by members of an economic mission, which will accompany the military men.

Other important business and financial leaders will accompany the mission.

The decision to expand the anti-comintern pact into a military alliance reportedly was prompted by increased indications of danger to Japan by Soviet Russia.

SHUNNING OPPORTUNITY

If it is free people will fight for the most worthless trinket, but a majority of them take advantage of the opportunity of a free education only as long as compulsory attendance laws leave them no alternative. Free schools belong to those heritages which cease to be cherished once they become a fact.

Free education is virtually universal in the United States, a few isolated, sparsely settled and impoverished regions being the only exceptions. Any boy or girl with the determination to know can have a high school and even a college education. Within the reach of all yet how few reach out for them!

Take any hundred children finishing the fifth grade in grammar school. How many will complete their education? United States bureau of education statistics show that only 83 will finish the sixth grade, 71 the seventh, 63 the eighth, 34 the first year of high school, 24 the second year, 18 the third year and 13 will graduate.

Of the 13 who win high school diplomas only seven will complete their first year in college, five their second year, three their third year and two their fourth or last year.

Thirteen per cent of the country's young manhood and womanhood in this day of enlightenment and universal education have a high school education and only two per cent possess college or university diplomas.
Hardly a record of which a country which boasts of its educational opportunities can be proud.

How do those scoffers at the advantages of an education reconcile these figures with their pet lament that the trouble with America is that the high schools and colleges have made everybody a white-collar job hunter? The real trouble is that many young men refuse to let the schools take them out of the ranks of the white-collar-job hunters and place them in the ranks of the white-collar-job holders.

EMPLOYED AT 40

Life may or may not begin at 40, but it is apparent in a report of the American Iron and Steel Institute that a great many American citizens who have passed this age are functioning with success in at least one important branch of industry.

"Two out of every five employes of the steel industry are over 40 years of age," says the report, "and the average age of all steel workers is 38 years, which is two years more than the average age of steel workers in 1930."

This constitutes encouraging recognition of the fact that a man's economic usefulness is by no means diminished during four decades of living. The truth is that, in point of efficiency and faithfulness, employes in the more advanced age groups represent a superior personnel well worth retaining in any business or industrial organization.

"At one and the same time, Bing Crosby can croon and smoke his trusty briar." Well—we love to see a man smoke a pipe.

A WPA administrator believe the strikers will be back. As they think it over, the boys will realize that one of the occupational hazards of work is work.

The depression was educational to say the least. Our average citizen learned to say "Uncle" in seven languages.

Italy Favors Wood And Canvas For Planes

Gun-tests on all metal airplanes and on their counterpart in wood and canvas showed that the latter type could suffer serious damage and still fight back while the metal airplane once seriously hit was finished as a fighting instrument although still able to maintain flight.

It was pointed out that against the aerial cannon there is no protection once a "hit" is made, but that against machine-gun fire a composition wing is superior to metal in that it does not present jagged ribs which interfere with normal flight and maneuverability. Also, it was found that a metal construction set up damaging vibration when ripped by fire whereas the composition fuselage or wings was unaffected. Vital parts, naturally, suffered equal damage in either airplane.

Tests were carried out on attack, light bomber and reconnaissance type planes of which Italy has only four outstanding models; the Breda, the Caproni 310, the Caproni AP 1, and the RO 37.

Fastest of these and probably the best for general purpose is the Breda monoplane which with a 1,000 horsepower Piaggio or Fiat motor, a crew of two and a dozen light bombs does 255 m.p.h. top speed.

It has a 250 to 500 mile range, depending on whether it is operated as a light bomber and attack plane or as a reconnaissance ship. Two machine guns in the nose synchronized with the motor and two on a turret in the rear cockpit comprise the plane's protection.

With the Breda, the Caproni 310 is equally popular in this category of airplane. It is a small bi-motored monoplane mounting a Piaggio 470 horsepower motor in each wing and is capable of 232 m.p.h. It is Italy's div bomber and the plane used by the "Suicide Squadron" of pilots pledged to dive their planes directly into an enemy objective. As the "suicide plane" it carries only a pilot and one huge missile making it actually a flying bomb. As an attack plane, it carries three men, light bombs and six machine guns.

The Caproni AP 1 is a single-engine version of the former model but slightly faster with a speed of 243 m.p.h. from one 650 horsepower Alfa motor. It carries a crew of two, light bombs and four machine guns of varied calibre. Its range is 700 miles.

The RO37 is a reconnaissance bi-plane capable of 210 m.p.h. with a Fiat or Piaggio radial or in-line motor. It has a range of 550 to 1,000 miles with a crew of two depending on whether it carries light attack bombs or just machine-gun defense. None of these attack planes are of all-metal construction.

The Great Game of Politics

political influence and most of them have been active and influential in their local politics.

THAT in every campaign they not only contributed to the party fund but back in their districts and wards went to work for the Administration of which they were a part has for many generations been a recognized and accepted fact. They had to do it. Now, that is all over. Now, they cannot contribute, they cannot ask anyone to vote and they cannot go to a convention without breaking the law and endangering their jobs. There are some who will resent these prohibitions; to others it will be a relief, but all of them will observe the law. Self-interest and self-protection insure that just as much as those things insured their political activity in the pre-Hatch bill days.

OF course, this bill cuts squarely across the path of the third-term movement. Few will dispute that it not only makes more remote than before a third nomination for Mr. Roosevelt, but that it also makes it exceedingly doubtful that he can control the convention which, renomination or no renomi-nation, his intimates assert he is set upon doing. Actually, the chief administration asset in a primary election—to wit, the power and weight of the great jobholding machine—has been nullified.

THAT, under existing circumstances, Congress should have passed this bill is perhaps the most significant single thing it has done this session. Of the President's personal opposition there is not the slightest doubt and the White House statements, made since its passage, that Mr. Roosevelt never really objected to "the principle" of the bill have a hollow ring, indeed. The simple recital of the Hatch bill history makes these statements seem wholly disingenuous and misleading.

WHAT happened was this: The Senate, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill early in March.
There was no opposition in sight and it was expected it would go through the House without delay.
It was then the White House got busy. The acting chairman of the Judiciary Committee and others were sent for, conferred with the President and began to make the vaguest excuses for failure to report. For more than four months the bill was held in the committee and it would certainly have died there but for the persistent hammering of the press.

TWO weeks ago it emerged, applying only to relief officials and with all of its teeth drawn. It was then said to be in shape satisfactory to the White House. Last week a coalition of Democrats and Republicans not only restored the teeth on the floor of the House but put in a lot of extra sharp ones the Senate had forgotten. They then passed the bill by an overwhelming vote.
The Senate promptly accepted the House bill and it is now in Mr.
Roosevelt's lap.

FROM the Administration standpoint the passage of the bill is unquestionably politically damaging.
The President's most partial friends do not pretend that his power in the primaries without the jobholders active can be even measurably as great as with them.
From the standpoint of the conservative Democrats the bill furthers their chances of controlling the 1940 convention. From the public standpoint the bill will promote decency in politics and make it easier for the will of the people to prevail over the machine—particularly in the primaries. It is a landmark in politics; its enactment against White House opposition a heartening thing. When the record of this session is written it will atone for more than one sin of omission and quite a few of commission.

240 Bombers "Raid" Paris

Paris, July 25.—Two hundred and forty British and French bombers and pursuit planes engaged today in a raid on Paris, designed to impress potential enemies with the speed and power of Anglo-French aerial forces.

The maneuvers also were intended to prove British disavowal of appeasement diplomacy in favor of sterner preparedness measures.

At least one thousand men comprised the crew that roared over Paris for more than two hours.
Throughout the morning, consecutive waves of heavy bombers dashed across the English Channel to be met by swarms of French pursuit and attack planes. The lighter ships alternated with the heavier ships in attacking maneuvers. The planes were in the air well over three hours. The first squadron returned to British air fields before noon, followed immediately by the heavy bombers. The maneuvers were carried out without a single motor failure or incident of any kind.

6 Seek Mayoralty in Reading

Reading, July 25.—Setting a new record for municipal election in Reading, six candidates today were seeking mayoralty nominations.

Mayor J. Henry Stump, now completing his second term, will run for the sixth time on the Socialist ticket.
George W. Giles, hosiery manufacturer, is unopposed for the Republican nomination, while four candidates are seeking the Democratic endorsement.

BLAMES FIRE ON RAT

PILLSFIELD, Mass. (INS).—Trying to smoke a rat out of a partition of his house, Gustave Radke nearly lost the house itself. Radke set fire to papers along the top of the foundation wall, in order to chase the rodent out of hiding. Instead, he set fire to the wall itself. The blaze had eaten its way into the kitchen before firemen, hurriedly summoned, could extinguish the efforts of the amateur exterminator.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By CARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD.—Temperature at the R-K-O ranch in the valley s topping 100 these days and poor Charles Laughton is due to start to work there soon wearing a 12-pound make-up for "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Charles Laughton

Laughton has been working with a physical instructor as if he were training for a prize fight but the studio fears that a long day before the camera would be more than his health could stand. So they won't use him for more than five hours a day. Between scenes, he will relax in an air-cooled dressing room.

All the valley studios are wishing the heat wave would break.
Yesterday, it brought John Garfield his most embarrassing experience. He went into the Warner commissary and, for greater coolness, let down his suspenders.
He also slipped off the tight pumps he has been wearing in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing."

Just as he was getting settled, one of his pals at the writers' table framed for it to be announced over the loud speaker system:
"Mr. Wallis on the telephone for John Garfield."

Hal Wallis is a studio boss, so Garfield jumped to answer. He forgot about his suspenders and, half way across the room, his pants fell to the floor.

Then, when he got back to his seat, someone had stolen his pumps which later turned up in a soup tureen on the writers' table.

They are telling a funny story on Producer Wallis, too. He got back to the studio from Europe yesterday and dozens of sub executives mobbed his office. Nobody could get in for 15 minutes and this is why.

Producer Wallis was looking at a magazine. Wallis, who makes movies costing millions of dollars, is an amateur photographer and the magazine had devoted a full page to one of his snapshots.

It was two and a half years from the time that Dolly Haas appeared in the British version of "Broken Blossoms" until she signed at Warners for "We Are Not Alone."

In the meantime, Hollywood heard very little about her.
The film colony will be amazed to learn how she spent her time.

For a year and a half she was enrolled in special classes at the Hollywood high school—perfecting her diction.

That trained bear Paramount sent on location for "The Untamed" very nearly tore a thumb off its trainer, John Stevens. They were rehearsing a scene which, a few minutes later, Ray Milland was supposed to do with the animal.

Don Ameche will offer a reward unless railroad officials find the star's makeup box, which he has been using ever since he went into pictures. The "Hollywood Cavalcade" company was working in the freight yards and Ameche laid the makeup kit in an open box car.
When he went back to get it, an engine had pulled the car away.

It's not the value of the box that worries Ameche. He's superstitious about changing to another.

Richard Dix, of all people, will sing the last song written by the team of Mack Gordon and Harry Revell. It's a college number for "Here I Am a Stranger." Richard Gordon warbles it, too.

As you probably have heard Gordon and Revell will split up after writing some of Hollywood's greatest hits.

Myrna Loy, back in Hollywood for "The Return of the Thin Man," says that you don't hear so much war talk in Europe itself, but that the trip back on the Normandie gave her the creeps. Two French warships convoyed the liner.

ley and John Payne. Paula will

Bristol Miss 'Cycles 500 Miles Through New England

The thrill of bathing in cold waters of mountain lakes, the experience of sound slumber on clean straw in a barn far from the noise of the cities, of cooking favorite foods over oil flames in a different hostel each day, and of healthful exercises of pedalling bicycles on an average of 30 miles daily—all these were the privileges of Miss Charlotte Landreth, 1024 Radcliffe street, and three friends during the past three weeks.

The companions of the local miss on this most interesting jaunt, were: Miss Beatrice Doak, Germantown, Miss Jean Rowntree, Philadelphia, and Miss Natica Bates, Groton, Mass. All are affiliated with the American Youth Hostels, Inc., and were thus privileged to stay overnight at the many hostels found throughout New England where they conducted their jaunt. They returned home on Thursday.

The quartet travelled 500 miles on their 'cycles, averaging 30 miles daily. Their longest daily treks were of 50 and 60 miles, and the shortest ones 20 miles.

Travelling by train to Berlin, Conn., the four there mounted bicycles, making the interesting circle tour, which ended at Groton, Conn.

The overnight stops included Wethersfield and Windsor, Conn.; Sugar Hill and Hanover, N. H.; St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Northfield, Lyme, Campton, and Meredith, N. H., and other points. It was at Sugar Hill that the girls experienced a cold, cold swim in the freezing waters of a lake formed by a mountain spring. "I only stayed in a few minutes," is Charlotte's version of it. A sugar maple manufactory was a point of interest they enjoyed in St. Johnsbury; and they remained for a day at the headquarters of the American Youth Hostels, Inc., in Northfield. At Meredith, N. H., one of the stops, is located the Summer youth hostel camp.

One of the two "splurges" described by the girls was a trip on the aerial tramway to the top of Cannon Mountain. "We had a long, hard climb on our bicycles to the base where the tramway car is located," said the Bristol miss in telling of her trip. "Then a man driving his truck up the mountain offered us a lift with our bicycles, and that saved us a hard two-hour ride." The girls enjoyed a trip through Lost River; the views of the Old Man of the Mountain, and Indian head; visited the Groton School; swam in the Connecticut River on numerous occasions; visited at a country auction, and had many delightful experiences.

Charlotte is proud of her purchase at the country auction—an ancient set of scales, consisting of a metal bar about two feet in length, a weight weighing nearly three pounds and which is moved along the projecting bar; with two hooks at the farther end for suspending the material to be weighed. "I only paid a dime for it," she explained; and her companions lost the bet that she would get tired of carrying it around on the bicycle and leave it along the road-side.

Miss Bates found it necessary to return home for a time, after the rim of her 'cycle was broken when run over by a truck. After this mishap in Northfield, she left for Groton, and after securing another bicycle joined the girls in St. Johnsbury to complete the trip.

The only baggage each girl carried was two knapsacks, which were fastened to the front and back of the bicycles. When they arrived at a hostel in the evening they would cook the food they purchased over the stoves provided, as they also did breakfast the following morning. The mid-day meals were purchased at restaurants. They were privileged to meet many other members of the hostel association who hailed from numerous states and different parts of Canada.

Modern Young Miss Has Several Bathing Suits

The busy, modern young woman who spends as much leisure as possible on the beach, makes sure that she has more than one suit for swimming or lounging on the sand. After all, nobody wouldn't think of wearing the same gown to three dances

By T. M. Jono

Victorious in six of the eight rounds, Young Terry, Trenton buzz-saw, tamed Tiger Reed, New York, in the wind-up of the professional boxing show held in the St. Ann's A. A. open air arena last night before the largest crowd of the season, estimated at 1700 spectators.

Only in the third and final rounds did the colored warrior from New York give Terry much trouble. The first was a trifle even but the New Yorker lost this session when he fouled Terry in the middle of the session.

The Trenton Italian exerted all his speed and boxing skill in conquering the barnstorming Reed. He blocked that dangerous right of Reed's all night and several times during the fight had the Tiger wobbly and half-dazed but it was impossible to floor his foe.

Reed was game and took all Terry could give which was plenty. He clinched many times during the fight and several times when hurt would hold on to the Trentonian until his head cleared up. Terry gave the visiting fighter a terrific beating on his right side and the sixth and seventh rounds were spent by Reed in protecting this side.

The fight began in a tame manner. After both feinted lightly they went into a clinch. Reed rushed Terry to the ropes and went for the stomach, the blow was hot, hitting Terry below the belt. Reed followed with a right to the jaw. Terry swung his first hard blow which caught Reed on the chin. Terry left hooked his foe and followed with a right under the heart. Terry socked him with a left and right and Reed went into a clinch. Reed twice jabbed Terry lightly both times. Both landed lefts at the bell.

The Trenton buzz-saw danced around more in the second. After he jabbed lightly twice, his right landed flush on Reed's jaw. Terry thought he had his opponent and rushed in only to be met with a stiff uppercut. Terry hooked to the body and Reed retaliated with a left to the mid-section. Terry's right found its mark on Reed's side but the colored boy came back with two fast uppers. Terry missed a hook but got in two lefts which made Reed shaky at the bell.

The Tiger came to life in the third. His left found its mark on Terry's jaw and when the Trentonian ducked, the Tiger chopped down a right which made Terry bend over. Another Reed right found its mark and Terry went into a clinch. Terry sunk his left into Reed's body and crossed over with a right. Reed came back with a right to the jaw and left to the body. Reed stopped Terry's rush with an uppercut. Reed landed three rights without a return. Terry got in a right to the heart as the bell sounded.

They clinched to open the fourth and after dancing around a bit, Reed swung a right to the body, and followed with another to the jaw. Terry blocked another right and then got in the best blow of the fight when he put plenty of pressure behind a sock which caught Reed under the heart. Terry chased Reed and landed again but the colored boy was clever and was looking to holding on. Terry got in four light jabs and then buckled Reed with a right. Reed hung on at the bell.

Tiger looked strong as he came out for the fifth. He made Terry miss with a left and uppercut him with a right. Reed got in another hard right. Terry landed a left hook and followed with a right and left to the face. Terry missed a hay-maker. Terry pummeled his opponent about the body on infighting. Terry tapped Terry lightly on the jaw. Terry again had the best on infighting. Terry hooked a left to the body at the bell.

Terry hit his left against Reed's jaw in the sixth but Reed was undaunted and whipped over his right. Terry was caught unawares and the blow landed solidly. Terry shook off the blow and his right and left found its mark on Reed's jaw. A Terry left ended on Reed's heart. After Reed landed his left, Terry went into infighting and ripped into Reed's bad side. Terry hit Reed on the side after the break and the Tiger was holding on at the bell.

To start off the seventh, Terry got in three blows to the body. Reed waited and uppercut Terry's adversary. Reed connected with a right to the jaw. Terry went into a clinch and pumped rights and lefts into Reed's sides. Terry brought one up from the floor which glanced off Reed's shoulders. A short left connected for Terry and Reed was groggy on the ropes. Terry dug into the colored boy but lacked the necessary blows to floor him.

Reed was a different fighter in the final canto. He lashed into Terry from the zone. Twice Terry was the victim of uppercuts. Terry landed a left to the body but Reed shelled him with a right. They went into a slugging match, toe to toe, in the center of the ring. After a separation, Reed socked Terry three times with his right and did not get a return. Terry landed a left and right but Reed's right shoved back Terry's head. Terry went to work and shook Tiger with an uppercut and followed with two rights to the side at the bell.

Terry at 156 pounds weighed one of the moves than Reed.

"Hokey" Leighton, Croydon youth proved that his koyo victory of last week over Howard "Kid" Sewell was no fluke when he repeated the performance last night. Again it was in the second round that Leighton knocked out Sewell.

The Croydonite had carried the first session and was leading handily in the second when a right to the jaw floored Sewell for the count of nine. The Philadelphia arose but was measured off by Leighton and this time took the count of ten.

Danny Russell, Philadelphia, lost on a touch "break" to Leonard Hayes, Trenton, in the semi-windup. This bout was fairly even for the three rounds fought and ended in the fourth with Hayes getting a technical knockout.

Russell was floored at the end of the third round but before Referee Moffo could start a count, the bell sounded ending the session. It was sock on the nose which floored Russell and his nose began to bleed freely. At the beginning of the fourth, the nose was still bleeding and so Referee Moffo called in Dr. Giordano to examine the sniveler. Dr. Giordano told the fighters to continue but Secretary of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission, Russell Allen, ruled that Russell lost on a technical knockout when Moffo stopped the bout.

Pat Mangini, Philadelphia, won by a technical knockout over Bobby Ross, Trenton, when the bout was stopped in the third round after two minutes and forty-nine seconds had elapsed. Mangini was striking hard blows throughout the entire fight and Moffo really saved Ross from a brutal beating.

Fred Budassi, Trenton, received a "home town" decision over Able Kaufman, Philadelphia. Kaufman, in the opinion of most of the spectators won the fight. The decision was split with the referee's verdict deciding the issue. In the writer's opinion, Budassi won the first round with Kaufman winning the others. In the third, Budassi was floored but was up without a count.

Mickey Anderson, Tacony, was no match for Joe Perry, Philadelphia. Perry floored Anderson in the first for the count of nine. The colored boy rallied towards the close of the session but in the second was on the floor again for the same count. Another right after he got up and the bout was over after one minute and thirty-five seconds.

LONG BASE HITS WIN GAME FOR THE DIAMOND NINE

Long base hits by Sid Purcell and Chuck Klein gave the Diamond team its thirteenth victory of the Bristol Twilight League last evening on the Cornwells field. The visiting team was Grundy's with the final count being 6-2.

Purcell's knock came in the first inning with two on base. It was a tremendous drive into left field for a home run. Klein produced his blow in the fourth, a triple to right, with two runners on base.

Manager Joe Diamanti used Charley Whyno and Lefty Fusaro on the hill for his club and the pair held the woolen twisters to five blows. The losing twirler was Mel Wright. Klein batted for a perfect night, getting a triple and single in two official trips to the plate.

FIFTH WARD CLUB TEN WINS OVER FLEETWINGS

Fighting an uphill battle, the Fifth Ward Sporting Club softball aggregation won its tenth straight game last evening on the high school field at the expense of the Fleetwings ten. Final score was 9-5.

The manner in which the airplane workers began the tilt, it appeared as if the Fifth Warders were in for a bad night. Jerry Jerome started for the Warders and was shelled hard in the first when the Fleetwings team scored five times.

Then Quindo went in to pitch for the Warders and that ended the Fleetwings' scoring for the night for the Warders' ace moundman blanked the airplane builders with ease.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO EMPLOYEES OF MANHATTAN SOAP CO., INC.:

The CIO called a strike against our plant at Bristol, Pa., on July 7th—a strike which was called for the purpose of endeavoring to secure an increase in wages of 6% to 22%.

We are taking this opportunity to point out the following:

1. This company has always paid the highest possible wages and has always treated its employees fairly. We have provided, so far as we were able to do so, the finest and best working conditions.
2. Our present and past wages and working conditions are equal to and better than nearly all concerns of this industry in the vicinity.
3. Our present wages are at least 10% higher than those paid by other competitive soap companies.

For your information we beg to quote from a survey of the U. S. Government dated April 19, 1939, which shows that the minimum base rate of pay in the industry is approximately 40c per hour for male employees. As you are aware, our base rate of pay is 50c per hour for laborers with higher rates for skilled workers.

The above facts were pointed out to your union committee before the strike was called, and again at our last meeting on July 17th to Mr. Joseph Cannon, regional director of the CIO, to Mr. Edward H. Heany, mediator for the Department of Labor of the State of Pennsylvania, and to Mr. William C. Liller, commissioner of the Conciliation Service of the U. S. Department of Labor. If you have not been advised accordingly, the above will suffice to fully explain to you our position in the matter.

THE COMPANY CANNOT CONTINUE OPERATIONS AT OUR PLANT AT BRISTOL UNDER A HIGHER WAGE SCALE.

All of our workers who wish to return to work under the present wage scale will please signify their intention to Mr. H. G. Fromm, superintendent, on or before July 27.

Those workers not signifying their intention of returning to work will be immediately replaced with others.

The company has always conformed to the law and will continue to do so.

We are confident that the public, our customers, and our employees will appreciate the fairness and the correctness of our position and that we may expect their continued support and co-operation.

TRENTON, July 25—Led by Defending Champion Herb Lawrence, of Bristol, eight favorites moved into the quarter-final round of the city men's singles tennis tournament last night at Cadwalader Park.

losses, Mr. Greenawalt said on Friday afternoon that the beetle this year is not doing so much damage in the central part of the county. It seems to be making its way to the northern and western sections of the county but in some places in the northern and western sections it as yet has not caused a great amount of damage.

The Mexican bean beetle, said Mr. Greenawalt, continues as unrelenting as ever in its activities in gardens and truck patches. It was explained, however, that its activities can be curtailed to a great extent by the proper treatment of the bean stalks.

According to Mr. Greenawalt, a greater amount of the wheat harvest has been completed and with very gratifying results. The farmers were favored with very excellent weather conditions. Last Summer the farmers experienced great difficulty in harvesting the rye and wheat crops as a result of the prolonged wet weather. In fact, the weather conditions were so adverse that in some instances the farmers failed entirely in the harvesting of their grain crops.

The wheat yield this year, said Mr. Greenawalt, was quite good, some farmers having reported a yield as high as 45 bushels to the acre. A large proportion of the wheat crop this Summer, said Mr. Greenawalt, was harvested with the use of the combine.

The Winter barley was harvested about a month ago and the yield of this also was quite good. Mr. Greenawalt said he is of the opinion that the oats yield will be rather light, this being due to the continued dry weather.
